Broadly Applicable Alternative Test Methods/Clean Air Act: U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Identifies Applicability Determinations/Regulatory Interpretations/Alternative Monitoring

Walter Wright, Jr.
wwright@mwlaw.com
(501) 688.8839

11/25/2026

The United States Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA") published in the October 30th Federal Register a Notice of Availability ("Notice") addressing:

- Applicability determinations.
- Regulatory interpretations.
- Alternative monitoring.
- Other determinations made by the EPA from June 2025 to July 2026.

The Notice addresses those actions that EPA undertook from June 2025 to July 2026.

EPA states that it made such decisions in response to inquiries concerning compliance with the Clean Air Act stationary source program, which included:

- New Source Performance Standards.
- National Emission Standards for Hazardous Air Pollutants.
- Emission Guidelines and Federal Plan Requirements for existing sources.

Six Broadly Applicable Alternative Test Methods Approval Decisions that the federal agency made in 2022, 2024, and 2025 are also referenced.

A copy of the Notice can be found here.