The Arkansas Department of Environmental Quality ("ADEQ") announced it is scheduling what it characterizes as hands-on training on how to utilize NetDMR electronic filing.

ADEQ states that as of December 21, 2016 Arkansas National Pollution Discharge Elimination System permittees will be required to submit discharge monitoring reports ("DMRs") electronically using the web-based tool NetDMR.

Participants in the ADEQ classes will learn how to create an account, manage access, enter data, sign DMRs, and import DMR data.

The training classes will be conducted by agency staff.

Participants must register and receive confirmation from ADEQ before attending training class.
