Our Construction Litigation Team has extensive experience with the complex legal challenges of building projects of all types and sizes. Owners, developers, general contractors, subcontractors, architects, and engineers turn to us for representation in federal and state courts and before arbitrators and mediators.

Team members have developed the specialized knowledge and experience to handle issues ranging from everyday mechanics liens and landlord/tenant problems to more sophisticated real estate and construction contract claims, land use and zoning disputes as well as eminent domain. We counsel clients concerning construction bids and industry practices, including issues ranging from interpretation of bid documents to antitrust aspects of team bids and formation of joint ventures.

We understand the importance of resolving disputes before trial, and our clients know that we have demonstrated success in the court system where our attorneys practice regularly in the state and federal courts of Arkansas. We represent clients in all aspects of construction disputes including informal dispute resolution, mediation, arbitration and civil litigation.
