Sydney Santa Ana concentrates her practice in bankruptcy and debtor-creditor relations. Drawing on her diverse educational background and work experience, she brings a broad perspective to her legal practice. Her prior experience as a legal services specialist at the Arkansas Department of Health provides her with valuable insight into the regulatory and administrative processes. In addition, Sydney's legal clerkships, along with an externship at the Supreme Court of Arkansas, have equipped her with practical legal skills and a deep understanding of the judicial system. Sydney leverages this experience to effectively assist with the representation of clients in challenging legal disputes.
